The Taj Mahal is situated on the right bank of the River Yamuna. It is about 270 km. north of the capital of India, Delhi and is a prominent feature which catches the beauty and grandeur of the Taj Mahal.

Set amongst the serene atmosphere of a well laid out garden, the massive and delicate nature of the building is quite surprising. It was built in the 17th century by Shah Jahan, the Mughal emperor in memory of his beloved wife, Mumtaz Mahal. Shah Jahan loved his wife so much that after the painful death in 1631, he decided to immortalize her in a building that he called

It is more than 350 years old and still has its remains intact, reflecting the architectural splendor from all over the world.
